

Begonia boliviensis Rivulet- Streams of Flowers!

Rivulet Double Red

Begonia Rivulet Series- streams of beautiful bright flowers adorn the distinctive foliage all summer long, from spring to frost, brightening up the shade garden. Tolerant to drought and shrugs off the rain!

Unlike many boliviensis types of begonias, the Rivulet series holds a nicely shaped controlled habit- perfect for tidy baskets and pot production offering consumers something different.

Rivulet also plays well with others in combination containers, opening up new possibilities to wow gardeners!

Grower friendly, Rivulet roots quickly and evenly on the bench. Plant growth regulators are generally not needed in finishing, making this a welcomed series into any spring program.

Five Great Colors to Choose From-

Double Red Orange Pink
 Rose Blush

Growing Tips for Finishing

- Maintain 13.5 hour days until bud formation and then increase to 16 hours for more showy plants. Suggested light levels are 30,000-40,000 Lux.
- Allow soil to become dry between waterings but avoid wilting as this will result in uneven and stunted growth.
- Maintain a 1 to 1.2 EC from a 20-10-20, 15-5-15 or 17-5-17 type fertilizer, alternating with a higher potassium feed will help to keep plants compact. No PGR is generally needed.

Transplant to Finish

Pot Size	Plants per Pot	Weeks to Finish
4.5"	1	7-8
6"	1	9-10
12" Basket	3	9-10
