

Celebrate Your Difference!

Do you agree with any of the following statements about your garden center?

Our store is unique. We strive to select products that inspire our customers to take their gardens to the next level.

My customers know they will find the broadest selection of garden favorites and hot new plants at our store.

We are always on the lookout for creative ways to encourage shoppers to put more plants into their carts and wagons each time they visit.

Hopefully you're nodding "Yes," because it's these goals that inspired us to create Flourish – a collection of some of the best plants from Ball Horticultural Company, carefully organized to help your garden center maximize their potential. You'll find products for end cap programs, special promotions, early- and late-season series to extend sales, plants for water-wise landscapes, fun additions to your shade department, new ways to think about traditional varieties and much more.

From annuals and perennials to tropicals, mums and ornamentals, Ball has you covered. Our leading programs like Burpee Home Gardens®, Wave® petunias and Simply Beautiful® focus on building consumer awareness and ultimately, the home garden success that encourages loyalty and repeat business. Every year, we're excited to bring innovative products and programs to market while improving our existing lines. We welcome this opportunity to share many of them with you in a new, retail-friendly format.

At Ball, we understand your unique needs and have been supporting local businesses for more than 100 years – you are the core of the industry! Please feel free to give a call or send an e-mail with feedback about Flourish or to let us know what else we can do to support you and your efforts to create excitement in the world of flowers.

Sincerely,

Bill Calkins Business Manager – Independent Garden Centers 630 588-3249 bcalkins@ballhort.com

Stunnin

So much of your independent garden center business is about grabbing the consumer's attention and inspiring them to make impulse purchases. There's no better location in your store to do this than on end caps and within spotlight displays. These prime locations are not just for any plant and certainly not for the bread and butter items. Feature displays are the perfect place to position your most vibrant plants, replenishing as they sell.

When displayed in hightraffic areas, the most dramatic plants command a premium price. Be sure to consider the size of the plant and container. End cap displays are ideal for larger sizes and more unique color mixes. Rotate products on and off end caps to keep your look fresh from week to week.

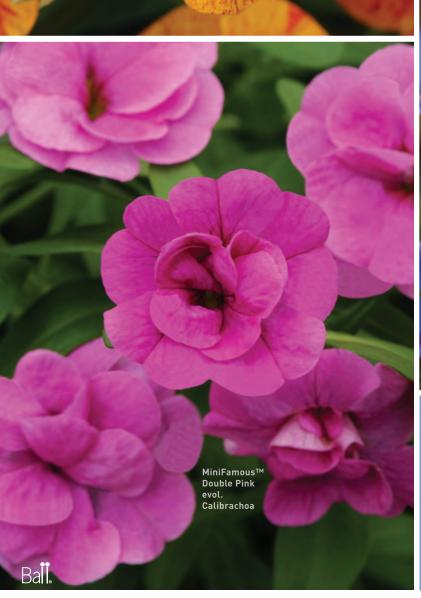

Go bigger than usual and charge for it!

CALIBRACHOA: Colorful blooms and tons of them.

Across North America, calibrachoa has one of the highest sell-through rates of any garden plant. It's all about the vibrant color and number of blooms. The new Can-Can series includes the most unique colors available, and 6-inch (and larger) pots create eye-catching displays. Don't forget to hang plenty of alibrachoa baskets overhead to maximize sales.

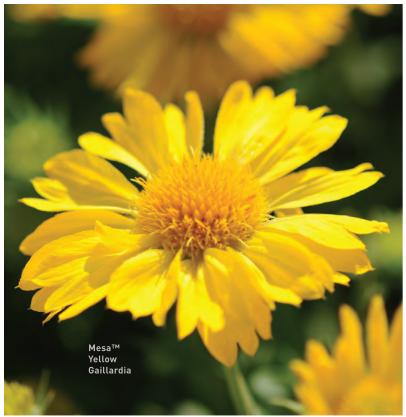

Diamonds Blue Delphinium

DELPHINIUM: Blue flowers draw customers.

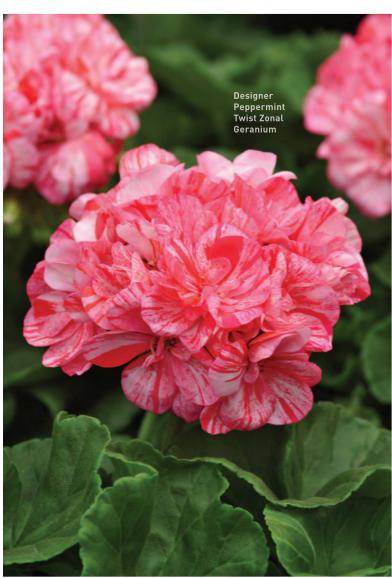

It's no secret that gardeners love blue flowers and will pay a premium for them. Diamonds Blue delphinium is sure to attract attention on any spotlight display. The "spurless" flowers actually look up instead of down, drawing customers in and encouraging the sale. Diamonds Blue is definitely a premium item when sold with blooms in one-gallon and larger pots. For an extremely high-end look, put some into decorative pots for grab-and-go sales.

SHADY PLAYERS

DARKER GARDENS NEED PLANTS, TOO.

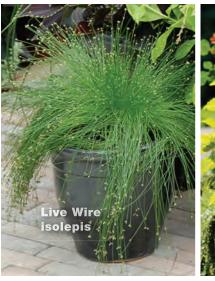

It seems like every home gardener lives in a cave these days — they are visiting your store desperately seeking shade-loving plants. The catch is that they want big color for these shady spaces and are looking to branch out from the traditional palette of appropriate products.

With this in mind, Ball's breeding team is working tirelessly to bring you a world-class lineup of top-performing impatiens, from tried-and-true varieties to some of the most unique shade lovers you've ever seen.

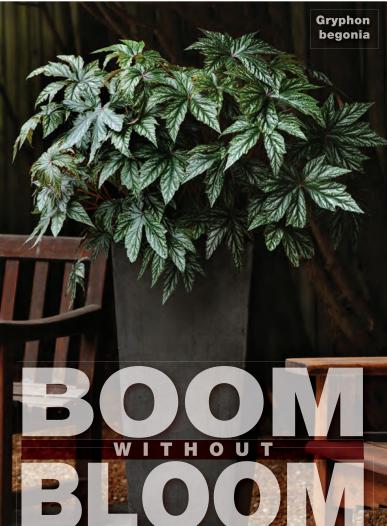

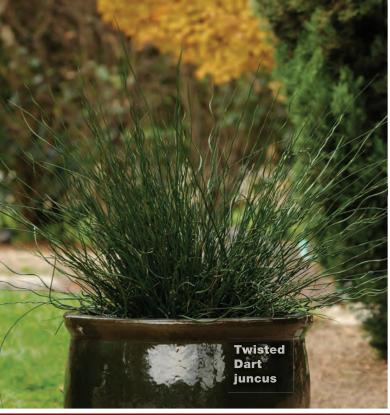

BIG COLOR DOESN'T ALWAYS MEAN BIG FLOWERS.

Some of the most attractive colors and textures for home gardens are found on plants that don't flower. Others may flower but their true decorative appeal is in their foliage. Try grouping plants with interesting forms and textures to capitalize on a decorator trend that's not slowing down.

Whether your garden center customers are looking for unique foliage components for sunny and shady areas or landscapes and mixed containers, their options are expanding each year.

The award-winning Fantastic Foliage® lineup from PanAmerican Seed also gives you upscale options in texture, shape and color. Check it out on page 21.

Henna coleus

Display beds and premade designer combos will help inspire your customers to get creative with unique foliage varieties.

COLEUS: AWESOME VARIETIES FOR SHADE AND SUN.

Some of the most unique color palettes can be found in current coleus breeding and it's the newest varieties that attract the most attention at retail. Stay on the leading edge with our newest introductions – Henna, Redhead and Electric Lime.

PURPLE BARON ORNAMENTAL MILLET: REPLACE THE SPIKE!

Growing up to 3 feet tall, Purple Baron adds pizzazz to any sun-loving mixed combination. Its dark purple leaves and thick plumes will appeal to gardeners in search of something different than the norm.

his award-winning lineup of premium seed items offers your customers upscale options

truly differentiated items – sure to inspire gardeners of all skill levels. Position these items just as you would any other premium annual:

- various container sizes
- high-dollar mixed combinations
- specimen plants in patio pots and hanging baskets

BLACK PEARL ORNAMENTAL PEPPER adds tons of visual interest to containers and garden beds, with the added benefit of really cool little glossy black peppers. It's an All-America Selections winner so you know it is going to perform for your customers.

LIMÓN TALINUM

Lime green plants are trendy and talinum Limón not only brings bright color to any garden space, it's extremely tough, thriving in heat and drought. Perfect for containers, baskets and in-ground settings, Limón also serves double duty as a fun fresh or dried garden cut flower.

SPILANTHES PEEK-A-BOO

With olive-shaped, golden yellow flowers that look a lot like little eyeballs, Peek-A-Boo is one of the most interesting plants you can feature in your store. Great for all applications (including sunny windows indoors), spilanthes is becoming a gourmet edible, as well. Some adventurous chefs are using the flowers as garnishes because when eaten, they create a numbing sensation that feels like electricity in your mouth. Give it a try!

Echinacea is a "top five" perennial and PowWow brings an abundance of flowers, drought tolerance and exceptional tidiness to the table.
Gardeners will especially flock to 2010 All-America Selections winner Wild Berry for its terrific, non-fading color show.

This three-color series has the largest leaves and largest blooms on the market. With a show of cream-colored flowers from April to May and foliage as big as 8 inches, try planting them in display beds to show customers their amazing attributes.

Intense blue blooms highlight this compact new introduction, ideal for perennial borders, as well as mass plantings. Excellent for early-spring sales, this first-year-flowering perennial can also be finished quickly for spring and summer sales. Talk about a perennial with many retail uses!

Invigorating the garden's foundation. Perennials are the building blocks of any home garden, providing lasting definition around specific sites and structures. Consumers view perennials as easy-to-maintain, long-lasting and fun to share with friends and neighbors. Research also shows gardeners look to local garden centers and specialty nurseries for the best selection of perennials, giving you the upper hand and challenging you to stay current with your product selection.

Gardeners are used to purchasing perennials green (not in bloom) by looking at the tag photo, but you have the opportunity to sell more if you can display them in color.

An effective way to inspire shoppers is by installing plenty of perennials in your display gardens. Be sure to label each plant so your customers can easily find them in your perennial department.

One of the most exciting new ventures we've launched in the past few years is Ball Ornamentals, launched in the past few years is Ball Ornamentals, a group within Ball dedicated to working with some of the most innovative breeders around the world to bring unique products and forms to the market.

If one of your garden center's key points of difference is the diversity and uniqueness of the product you offer, here are some hot new intros to add to your assortment.

Expression Hydrangea: Double flowers stand at attention.

A reblooming hydrangea, this variety has double pink-to-blue mophead flowers that stay upright during blooming - a significant improvement over others on the market. With deadheading, Expression will rebloom in the summer and fall.

Fluttenby Petite Butterfly Bush: The FIRST series of groundcover buddleia.

If you want a unique series that's sure to attract attention, look no further than Flutterby Petite. Available in blue, white or pink, this low-water-needs series is remarkable in small garden spaces.

Sunshine Daydneam Abelia:

Limitless uses for garden designers.

With its neat growth habit and orange/red/bronze foliage under white-to-pink flowers, Sunshine Daydream will attract attention from gardeners of all skill levels. And it attracts butterflies and works well in container gardens, patio pots and as a foundation plant.

Pretty (& Profitable!) Boost your Wave sales in Pink

Boost your Wave sales by increasing your palette.

In recent surveys of Wave fan club members, more than 50% responded that they would like to find more colors at their local garden center. In addition, they wish there was better availability of the different Wave types, especially Tidal Wave. The same consumers also agreed that they identify Wave at retail by its recognizable pink packaging.

Sell the full range of the MOST profitable petunia in the marketplace. The complete collection lets you put Wave in the store earlier and keep it there longer into the season. Start with SHOCK WAVE early, move into WAVE and EASY WAVE mid-season, then finish strong with TIDAL WAVE. No other petunia lets you spread your program over so many months!

Wave petunias come with a complete program for your total success: unmatchable uniformity on the retail bench, highest profit per sq. ft. of any spreading petunia, flexible and unique packaging options, and direct-to-consumer communications.

Happy Birthday, Wave!

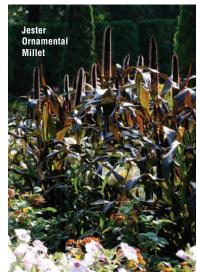

Known by its pretty pink pot, colorful blooms and garden performance across the globe, Wave celebrates 15 years in 2010! From original Wave Purple to its current extended family of 5 series, the Wave brand consistently brings new colors, patterns and planting options to gardeners – all while maintaining the easy-care performance Wave has come to represent.

Wave recently debuted several new colors and patterns:
Easy Wave Burgundy Star is the first star pattern in the series; Easy Wave Plum Vein is the series' first vein pattern; and Shock Wave Denim changes throughout the season like your favorite pair of blue jeans. Whatever the color or use, Wave petunias remain a winner with gardeners ... and the future looks colorful for

PROFIT ON THE SHOULDERS OF THE SEASON.

Although the majority of your sales are made in a pretty short period of time, customers come into your store every day it's open and they come to buy. Spring fever seems to hit earlier and earlier every year, and home gardeners continue to search out new plants to brighten up fall and winter landscapes.

MR. MUM

With more than 30 years experience working with garden mums, Ball's mum expert ED HIGGINS knows what he's talking about. Here are his top mum picks for independent garden centers.

Sunset Orange features vivid two-tone flower color (dark red-orange in the center and orange outer petal color) growing into a perfect ball-shaped plant. A very prolific bloomer, this variety shows great color across North America

Five Alarm Red is one of the first mums to flower in the fall and displays bold red blooms, large flowers and a desirable mounded habit. Your customers will love its vivid flowers that last longer than any of the other early red varieties.

Ed considers Sundance Yellow perhaps the best plant habit in our line-up. Its prolific, uniform, ball-shaped plants carry hundreds of super-bright flowers that last longer than most other varieties.

Sparkle White is one of the freshest white mum flowers ever! As white as freshly fallen snow, it looks great across North America. Sell this variety in 8-inch and smaller containers.

A novel and eye-catching look at retail, Perfectly Pink is a mid-season variety with large flowers and a mounded habit. Its unique two-tone coralpink flower color almost begs you to display this variety on an end cap in your highest traffic area.
